Thank you to all who made it the Best

Our 'Best Of' feature, that celebrates businesses in Endumeni, was a journey that started when readers were invited to nominate what they thought were deserving businesses in the various categories. From there, those businesses encouraged their customers to 'Vote for Us' once voting opened. The voting was online, which, for the Courier, was a first for the 'Best Of' feature. Once the votes were electronically tallied, the category winners were contacted to advertise in the feature, where they had an opportunity to thank their loyal customers for their support! So the process was definitely a 'united front' that involved the Courier, our readers and local businesses.

Firstly, we thank our loyal readers for nominating their favourite businesses. Special thanks to those businesses who supported our 'Vote for Us' feature and of course this bumper 'Best Of' feature. By supporting our Endumeni business community, we are not only encouraging support for the local economy, but stimulating pride in our town/s.

One of Endumeni's best – Springbok wrestler Steven Brown

Steven Brown, veteran wrestler and school rugby coach, is one of the most decorated sporting personalities produced in the Endumeni area.

The former police officer has represented South Africa at the highest level at both the African Championships, World Championships and Commonwealth Games, with his medal collection speaking volumes about his success.

A humble man by nature, Steven prefers to speak about the hundreds of children - boys and girls - who have passed through his wrestling ring since the founding of his wrestling club (now called Rhinos) 38 years ago.

He is also a highly successful school rugby coach and his flair for bringing out the best in children from all walks of life certainly makes him one of Endumeni's 'Best Of'!
